

WHAT'S NEW

TREND SETTER

Belwith-Keeler has introduced decorative cabinet hardware in jewel-like finishes. The sophisticated Trellis pull in Ultra Brass is patterned after the architectural quatrefoil motif. $12-$41, depending on size and finish. belwithkeeler.com.

ANIMAL INSTINCTS

Jessica Cushman and Judy Dimon, founders of JKC&D, have translated wearable art into workable hardware. Each piece is one-of-a-kind, including this naturally shed African warthog tusk pull. $62. Available through [Katonah Architectural Hardware](http://Katonah Architectural Hardware), katonahhardware.com, jkcandd.com.

THE SKINNY

A slimmer escutcheon is just one of the hip features of the Edge passage set by Rocky Mountain Hardware. A bronze finish and a sculptural knob add to the contemporary vibe. $632, available through Klaifs, klaifs.com, rockymountainhardware.com.

TEXTURAL APPEAL

The hand-hammered, pebble-like surface of Waterworks' Dorland pull plays against the smooth polished back plate. Shown in unlacquered brass, the cabinet hardware can also be ordered in nickel. $380, waterworks.com.
