

The Most Popular Entry Photos of 2015

Readers find inspiration in organized mudrooms of every shape and style

Becky Harris December 26, 2015

While looking through the most popular entries of 2015, it was interesting to note that rather than fancy grand foyers, backdoor mudrooms were clearly the favorites. Interesting, but not so surprising: Having a good place to land, stash outerwear, take off shoes, hang up bags, get organized, always find the keys and perhaps charge electronics is key to keeping a busy household organized and tidy. Popular styles ran the gamut, from country farmhouse to eclectic, rustic to minimalist. Without further ado, here are 20 of the entryway photos Houzz users found most welcoming in 2015.

Gallery style. With such beautiful and large windows in this entry, the focus is more about looking back outside. White paint, a modern door with cutouts and an artful bench made of a log slice on lucite legs give this space an art gallery look.

Door: custom, ProBuild Lumber; white bronze door hardware: Rocky Mountain Hardware; windows: Jeld-Wen; bench: custom